THOMAS DELIGHTED OVER BIG SUCCESS

All Attendance Records of Show Broken—Owners of Six Units Will Keep Homes Open.

All Records Smashed
On Last Day of Show

Immense crowds visited the "Home Beautiful" exhibits of The Constitution and cooperating merchants, Sunday, which marked the official closing of the show. Avondale Estates and Morningside, however, have decided to keep their units open to the public for some time longer.

Sunday's attendance figures follow:

Avondale Estates	32,000
176 Lullwater road (Druid Hills)	12,000
215 Bolling road (Garden Hills)	12,000
44 Wakefield drive (Brookwood Hills)	10,000
118 Sherwood drive (Morningside)	8,000

All attendance records in the history of the three annual "Home Beautiful" exhibits, sponsored by The Constitution and cooperating merchants, were broken Sunday afternoon and night when approximately 74,000 people crowded the nine units, and other thousands were turned away, despairing of ever being able to make their way through the jam surrounding the residences.

It was the greatest outpouring of the people of Atlanta to any one event ever offered here. It surpassed all expectations of the backers of the show and furnished convincing proof of the drawing power of Constitution publicity.

Six Houses Remain Open.

When the doors of the nine units were closed at 10 o'clock Sunday night, leaving the workers tired but immensely gratified over the success of the showing here, it marked the official closing of the exhibit. However, the management of Avondale Estates and of Morningside, recognizing the advertising power of the beautifully furnished homes, have decided to keep them open for some time longer. The five Avondale units will remain open for inspection of the public for two weeks. Morningside has not yet announced just how long the unit will remain furnished as it is at present.

The "Home Beautiful" show opened Sunday, one week ago, with an attendance of approximately 35,000. The next day came rain, the next a regular downpour, the third a cold spell and chilling winds, all of which, of course, detracted from the crowds. During those three days, however, the total attendance was 26,000. Thursday, with better weather, 10,700 took advantage of the opportunity to see the big show. Friday the attendance swelled to 12,500 and Saturday increased to 10,000. The total attendance for the eight days was approximately 195,000.

Specialty Shops and Stores

Atlanta possesses a multitude of specialty shops, stores and concerns that specialize in a particular line of merchandise. They are the places where you can get just what you want in their respective lines.

Sometimes it is an article out of the ordinary. It may be something that must be manufactured as you direct, or it may be a particular repair job.

Read the advertisements in this morning's Constitution and inform yourself. You may not need anything today that these shops handle, but there comes a time in everyone's life when all at once they want something right now.

Read The Constitution's news columns for information on the topics of the day, and the advertising columns for your personal profit.

Harry Thaw Slapped in Face By Pretty Cigarette Girl

PLEADS WITH EVELYN TO REMARRY HIM

(Copyright, 1926, by The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)

New York, April 4.—On the heels of his humiliation in a crowded Greenwich Village cabaret early this morning, when a pretty young cigarette girl slapped his face soundly after, she charged, he insulted her and the gay revelers loudly applauded her act, it was learned authoritatively that the slayer of Stanford White, pleading with Evelyn Nesbit, the wife he cast off after she saved him from the electric chair, to remarry him.

On a pretext Thaw met the dancer secretly at the Hotel Ritz-Carlton in Philadelphia two weeks ago, where, on his knees and on the verge of tears, he pleaded:

"Cites the Stillmans."

"Evelyn, marry me again and let's start all over. The Stillmans did it—why can't we?"

Down in Atlantic City tonight in the Folies Bergere, where she is the star of a night club cast, Evelyn admitted that Thaw was pressing ardent suit. She smiled bitterly as she spoke of it.

"Yes, he wants to marry me again, but I am turning him down cold," she said. "I know what I'm doing. I realize I'm passing up a marvelous opportunity to get some of the Thaw millions for my son, Russell. Millions that he is entitled to. To marry him would mean to bring Russell into his power. I shudder to think of it. I haven't forgotten what happened to the Gump boy."

Thaw Is Slapped.

The Pittsburgher received another blow to his pride, a stinging slap on the mouth early this morning when he mistook Greenwich Village for Montmartre. Jean LaMotte, 18-year-old cigarette girl in Jimmy Kelly's famous Sullivan street place, did the slapping.

Thaw swaggered into Kelly's shortly after midnight, as usual with a roll. He took a table on the rim of the dancing oasis and ordered a bottle of fizz water. He was alone.

The place was crowded. No one knew Thaw was among those present until he called Charles Murray, an en-

SEATS FOR SINGLE OPERAS OFFERED TO PUBLIC TODAY

Single Performance Tickets Will Continue on Sale Until Closing of Season.

With the opening of the 1926 Metropolitan opera season in Atlanta only two weeks away, the sale of tickets for single performances will open at 9 o'clock this morning at the Cable Piano company. Sale of single performance tickets will continue until the last day of the season.

Out-of-town patrons may obtain tickets for single performances by writing to the Musical Festival association at 84 North Broad street. Money orders, check, draft or express orders must accompany the letter and a self-addressed envelope should be inclosed.

Although the demand for season tickets this year has been unusually heavy, officials of the association have announced that many desirable seats may yet be obtained. The policy of "first come, first served" will be continued in the sale of single performance tickets as was the course in season tickets sale, it was announced.

The opera season this year promises to be one of the most brilliant and successful in the history of the Metropolitan opera in Atlanta, according to Colonel William Lawson Peel, president of the association.

"Never before in the history of the Metropolitan opera in Atlanta has there been the visible encouragement offered those working in behalf of the season than this year," Colonel Peel declared. "People are talking opera and more than that, they are fortifying themselves with tickets in advance so as to be assured of seats for their favorite performances."

The opening opera will be "Aida," with Rosa Ponselle and Giovanni Martinelli in the leading roles. Feodor Chaliapin will have the leading role in "Don Quixote" Tuesday night. A double bill will be presented Wednesday night with Gigli, Bori, Scotti and Louise Hunter in "La Boheme," and Tebaldi, Lawrence Tibbett and Mary Lewis starring in "Pagliacci."

One of the most beautiful operas of the season will be "Jewels of Madonna" on Thursday afternoon, with such favorite stars as Martinelli, Feodor Chaliapin, Lawrence Tibbett and Tebaldi in leading roles. Another drawing card for single performances will be Marion Talley who will make her Atlanta debut with the Metropolitan opera in the name role of "Lucia di Lammermoor." The final day will have "Tannhauser" in the afternoon and Verdi's "Il Trovatore" at night.

Gas Tax Bill Tabled.

The gas tax bill, by Representative Harris, of Jefferson, was tabled Friday on motion of its author, with factional lines drawn sharply on the vote. Representative Mann later moved that the bill be taken from the table, but a motion to adjourn by Representative Harris, took precedence and prevailed by a vote of 83 to 77, the closest yet recorded in the extra sessions.

Mr. Mann and other members supporting bonds, have expressed the desire to kill the gas tax bill in order that the bond resolution may be presented as the last available means by which the state's problem of constructing highways can be solved. Representative Harris and other members opposed to bonds, have stated that while they wish to furnish the highway department with additional funds, they first desire a vote on the highway bond resolution.

A call to arms for the vote today on the motion to take the gas tax bill from the table has been sent out by leaders of bond supporters and opponents, all of whom anticipate that the vote will be a test vote on the strength of the two factions, or as near such as is obtainable.

Mr. Harris' bill would provide additional funds for highway department, and would provide further that limitations in the expenditure of funds for construction of roads, maintenance, refunds to counties, and overhead. It anticipates continuation of the "pay-as-you-go" plan of highway construction, and its supporters estimate that under its operation the highway department would have $13,000,000 in 1927.

Mann Bill Proposed.

Mr. Mann's resolution proposing the issuance of $70,000,000 in bonds would write into the constitution the provision guaranteeing to each county in the state two roads connecting with other roads in the state system.

Resolutions on sine die adjournment were rejected by house and senate last week but with disposition of the highway bond resolution scheduled this week members of the assembly discussed the probability that adjournment would be voted before next Saturday.

A bill to appropriate funds with which to meet the expenses of the extra sessions, including items for which the sum aggregates $100,000, was passed by the house last Friday.

DRY HEARINGS TO OPEN TODAY IN WASHINGTON

Modificationists Prepared To Submit Data Showing Prohibition Is Farce; Not Enforceable.

ACTION IS CALLED FIRST INVENTORY

Drys Confident They Can Present Stronger Case in Favor of Existing Dry Law.

BY RAYMOND CLAPPER.

Washington, April 4.—Prohibition goes on trial before the bar of public opinion Monday when the senate investigation of enforcement conditions and modification proposals begins.

This will be the first real inventory of prohibition since the Volstead act became operative six years ago. During that time wets have been in continuous rebellion, declaring it has been a failure and always will be. Drys have defended it passionately, proclaiming it as the greatest single step in social advancement ever undertaken and one that will become increasingly effective with time.

This debate has gone on all over the country, in the press, in the pulpit, in congress, on the street corners, in homes. It has been befuddled with propaganda, exaggeration, misstatement, personal interest and indignation until of late the discussion has reached the general proportions of one terrific, ear-splitting nation-wide din.

To Sift Facts.

Now an official attempt is to be made to sift the facts, tune out the static, and discover just what the situation is with respect to this great American experiment.

Technically the senate committee is considering several bills by wet senators which seek to liberalize the Volstead act within the limits of the 18th amendment—the Edge and Edwards beer bills. Senator Bruce, of Maryland, has a proposal to change the 18th amendment to permit something like the Canadian local option system. There are several other plans for referendums and modification in various directions. Then there is the new drastic bill for extending the Volstead act just presented for the administration which would establish government supervision of cereal beverage plants, and permit search of homes on evidence that liquor is manufactured. But as congress is three-fourths dry, none of these has the slightest chance at this session, except possibly the administration dry bill and that probably will be because of the lack of time before adjournment.

Appeal to Public.

The senate committee is in reality acting as a prostrum, a sounding board, a loudspeaker for a trial of prohibition before the jury that in the United States ultimately decides all things political. If the drys make a successful defense of prohibition in these hearings, the last remote chance of modification for many years will vanish.

On Monday morning five senators acting as a subcommittee of the senate judiciary committee will sit down around a long mahogany table and for at least two weeks they will spend four hours a day listening to and questioning witnesses, dividing the time evenly between wets and drys. No subpoenas have been issued. The committee has invited no individual witnesses to appear. It has asked the wet and dry groups to get their own witnesses, arrange their time as they think best, and present their respective cases in any way they choose.

Hearing Important.

The administration and all politicians except those from strictly wet localities, will move to tighten up enforcement and the number of parched throats will increase rapidly. On the other hand if the wets make their case stick, the next congress probably will have a smaller dry strength, enforcement probably will lag more and more, and in one way or another probably by ultimate weakening of the Volstead act, something more than one-half of one per cent of alcohol will come into general acceptance. As three-fourths of the states must approve any alteration of the 18th amendment, a change in this foundation of federal prohibition is far, far

GERALD CHAPMAN DIES ON GALLows TO NIGHT IF MERCY IS DENIED

As Death's Shadow Nears

By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.

New York, April 4.—Gerald Chapman, who is to dance a rigodon upon the air in Wethersfield prison Monday midnight, undoubtedly gets some satisfaction from the memory of those days when he and the woman he loved lived together in New York in sumptuous surroundings while police scurried in search of him on a cold trail.

Carlo Pellogia, who revealed the fact that on February 13, 1922, while agents of law on two continents were looking for Chapman and Dutch Anderson, both men were picked up by police in a raid on a gambling house and freed again without their identity becoming known, told of that audacious period of the bandit's life.

The raid was on Pellogia's house in West Ninety-fifth street, here, where Anderson, who then used the name of William LaFarge, had installed a roulette wheel. Chapman, known to Count Pellogia as "Mr. Colwell," and the woman who passed as his wife often played there.

At that time thousands of posters, issued by the government asking the apprehension of Chapman and Anderson, were in circulation. They had held up a registered mail truck at Leonard street the previous October and an American Express company truck in Niagara Falls in December, before the raid. They were also suspected of having robbed a jewelry store at Niagara Falls and a jewelry shop at Binghamton, N. Y.

"During the months that I knew them best—in the latter part of 1921 and the first part of 1922—they were living unfurtive and like millionaires," said Pellogia.

"I met them at the Schuyler Arms hotel just off Riverside drive, he said. "They were evening clothes, dinner always. And Mrs. Colwell's jewels were wonderful."

The former gambling house proprietor declared Chapman exhibited marked interest in rare books and paintings, was always studious and polite, visited St. Patrick's cathedral regularly, never lived in one place more than six months and entertained him lavishly at the "Colwell" summer home at Rye, N. Y.

SENATE TO GET JUDGE ENGLISH CASE THIS WEEK

House Will Wind Up Work on Impeachment Order Within Few Days, Is Belief.

Washington, April 4.—(AP)—While the senate is debating the long-pending Steck-Brookhart election contest this week, the house will wind up its work on the impeachment case against Federal Judge George W. English and formally submit its indictment to the senate.

A bitter fight is expected over the proposal of the elections committee to send Senator Brookhart, republican, Iowa, and seat in his place Daniel F. Steck, his democratic opponent in the 1924 senatorial election in Iowa. The result now appears in doubt, but whether a vote can be had this week is problematical.

Having already voted overwhelmingly to impeach Judge English, the house on Tuesday will make another effort to name the managers who will prosecute the charges in the senate. The proposal now is to increase the number of managers from seven to nine—five republicans and four democrats.

A special committee will be named to inform the senate of the impeachment. The senate must take the case up on the day after the house reports and issue a formal summons for Judge English, who will be required to appear at the senate bar in person.

Whether the senate will accede to the desire of President Coolidge that the trial be held at a special session immediately after congress adjourns will depend largely upon the findings of the judiciary committee as to whether such a procedure would be constitutional. A subcommittee of four will take up that subject in the near future.

STATE ROAD BOND NEEDS EMPHASIZED

Steering Committee's Statement Points To Recent Road Contracts as "Strongest Evidence."

The legislative steering committee for good roads pointed out in a statement Sunday that the contracts awarded Saturday by the state highway department constitute the strongest evidence yet advanced that state bond issues for highway construction are necessary if Georgia expects to have a connected system within the next quarter of a century, and if more than 100 small counties in Georgia ever expect to feel the benefit of highway progress.

The statement follows:

"The state highway department Saturday awarded road and bridge contracts amounting to almost two million dollars confined to less than ten out of the 101 counties in Georgia. These contracts not only absorb every dollar of state aid and federal aid funds available for 1926, but also hundreds of thousands of dollars through various local bond issues based upon property taxation. At the same time these contracts leave more than 20 counties that have already issued bonds to match state and federal funds absent. No obligation is incurred by asking for information at the exposition, pointing out that attendants at various exhibits are at the service of visitors, and that they are glad to give any information or suggestions they may.

One of the biggest features of the show and one that is expected to draw the largest attendance ever seen at an affair of this kind in Atlanta, will be the moving picture show to be given daily, afternoons and nights throughout this week in Taft hall.

There is no admission charge to this show or the exposition, proper. While an admission fee of 50 or 25 cents is customary at affairs of this kind all over the country, it was decided to eliminate admission this year in order that there might be no reason what ever why persons wishing to avail

BOARD OF PARDONS ONLY HOPE LEFT TO NOTED BANDIT

Meeting Will Be Held This Morning at Which Attorneys Will Make Plea for Clemency.

CHAPMAN REFUSED RIGHT TO APPEAR

Governor Trumbull Declares Presence Would Only Serve To Satisfy Curiosity of Morbid.

BY FRANK GETTY.

Hartford, Conn., April 4.—With less than 24 hours remaining within which Gerald Chapman may be saved from the noose, a perfect Easter Sunday found three forces completing arrangements to avert or carry out the execution of the erstwhile super-bandit.

As for the condemned man, he spent Easter day alone in his cell for the most part, the dread monotony of waiting broken only by a brief visit from Father Michael Patrick Barry, his spiritual adviser. Chapman spent what may be his next to the last day on earth reading and gazing from a tiny barred window at a little patch of perfect blue "which prisoners call the sky," a sky which smiled down upon others whose freedom entitled them to enjoyment of the day.

Pardon Board Meets Today.

Governor John H. Trumbull, of Connecticut, visited at his mansion in Plainville, announced that the board of pardons would meet at 10 o'clock Monday morning to consider eight affidavits which will be introduced by Chapman's counsel in a last effort to save his life.

Meanwhile Judge Frederick Groehl and others on the prisoner's legal staff, worked feverishly closeted with witnesses whom they have unearthed whose testimony they hope will convince the pardon board that there still exists a measure of doubt as to whether Chapman shot and killed Policeman James Skelly, of New Britain, for whose murder the famous bandit has been sentenced to hang early in the morning of April 6.

Inside the forbidding walls of Wethersfield prison, preparations for the hanging were completed as though no possibility of a pardon existed.

Counsel to Appear.

Chapman's last practical hope hangs upon the appearance of his counsel before the board of pardons Monday morning.

The board is composed of six members, including the governor. The others are Justice William M. Malbie, David S. Day, of Bridgeport; Sheriff Francis J. Murphy, of Morris; Dr. Samuel B. Overlock, of Pomfret, and Rollin V. Tyler, of Haddam.

Upon the decision of these six men depends the bandit's fate. Judge Groehl and his associates will attempt to convince the board that Chapman may have been innocent of Policeman Skelly's murder.

Chapman himself will not be permitted to appear before the board. This is because Governor Trumbull declines to take any chances on the remote possibility of a jail delivery.

"I was not required, under the statutes, to call this special meeting," he said.

BYRD EXPEDITION WILL SAIL TODAY

New York, April 4.—(AP)—The final bit of cargo, the last crated part of the two airplanes, and the last of the scientific instruments to be used by the Byrd polar expedition was stowed away on the steamer Chantier today. The ship finished coaling, and there remained only a farewell luncheon to be given by her commander to all backers and other guests tomorrow before she sails that afternoon for the north seas. Commander Byrd was almost swamped by last-minute applications from men desiring to accompany him in his search for new land among the arctic wastes. The commander said he and his 46 comrades sail with the knowledge that their expedition is the most completely equipped ever to dare the perils of arctic explorations. The navy department, the National Geographical Society, weather bureau and many scientific institutions are cooperating to the fullest extent of their facilities.

HOPE NOW LIVING FOR FARM RELIEF

BY ARTHUR HENNING.
(By Leased Wire to The Constitution and The Chicago Tribune.)
Washington, April 4.—(AP)—Hopes entertained by the corn belt of getting through congress at this session an ambitious program of agricultural relief are fast going glimmering.

The surplus control bill for boosting the price of farm products on the domestic market which was brought to Washington by the corn-belt organizations has encountered hard sledding in the house and senate.

It now seems a foregone conclusion that congress will not pass any legislation at this session setting up the proposed machinery for establishing and maintaining a higher price for farm products at home than abroad.

The utmost that can be expected at congress at this time appears to be the creation of a farm board to deal with the surplus problem in some vague, undefined manner, and even that may not be forthcoming on account of the confusion of opinions in and out of congress on the question of what to do with the farmer.

Peret Succeeds In Task Too Big For Financiers

Paris, April 4.—(AP)—Raoul Peret, the modest, unassuming minister of finance, has jammed through the chamber and senate in one short week by laboring in both houses night and day, financial measures designed to balance the 1926 budget. At an early hour this morning the measures finally were adopted by the French parliament.

These measures, or others along similar lines, caused the downfall of such renowned financiers as Caillaux, Loucheur and Doumer in the past six months. M. Peret's next step is to put the budget through the senate when it reconvenes April 12.

The 1926 budget figures as definitely established by yesterday's vote in the senate and chamber are 41,337,000,000 francs (approximately $1,500,000,000) expenditures, and 41,919,000,000 francs revenue.

The most important item in the additional revenues voted are: First, a general increase of 30 per cent in the customs tariffs on all imports entering France, including wheat, coffee, cotton, sugar and agricultural implements and parts; second, a 2 per cent tax on the business turnover; third, an individual poll tax; fourth, an increase in the price of tobacco; an increase in the tax on alcohol.

The parliament also voted a state monopoly in petroleum, effective April 1, 1927, but referred the proposed sugar monopoly back to the committee.

Other taxes were an increase in the stamp tax on foreign securities, stocks and bonds, an increase in the stamp tax on promissory notes, business receipts and other commercial paper, an increase in the stamp tax on meals at hotels and restaurants proportionately; and a special tax on insurance policies of all kinds.

Roughly, the measures voted in the past week are calculated to bring to the French treasury an additional four billion francs.

TIED OF LIVING WRITES BOY OF 9 AND DISAPPEARS

Washington, April 4.—After nearly 36 hours of search police have failed to discover the whereabouts of George Youngblood, nine years old, who left home Saturday, leaving a note saying that he was tired of living.

"I am going away; I am tired of living," the note to his parents said, "Good-by forever. I left at 2 o'clock." The boy has been missing for nearly a week, and his mother said she feared he had killed himself.

Police, however, believe that it was spring wanderlust.

COAST LINE TRAIN DERAILED NEAR TROY

Troy, Ala., April 4.—(AP)—No one was said to have been seriously hurt when a broken rail caused the derailment of seven coaches on Atlantic Coast Line passenger train No. 57, Waycross to Montgomery, near Troy, blood station, 7 miles north of here, early this morning.

The cars were said to have rolled down a embankment, causing serious damage to track and equipment. Two passenger trains and a number of freight trains were being delayed. Railroad officials expect to clear the line by Monday morning.

President and Wife Hosts To 40,000 Youngsters Today

BY ROBERT D. LUSK.
Washington, April 4.—President and Mrs. Coolidge will be hosts Monday at what is expected to be one of the roughest functions of the Washington social season.

Four completely-equipped first-aid stations have been set up on the white house lawn as arnica and iodine headquarters for guests who might be injured during the annual Easter Monday egg-rolling contest to which all children under 10 years of age in the capital have been invited. In addition, 30 policemen, the entire personnel of the white house force, have been detailed to see that young guests do not carry off the 20-ton marble fountain or other furniture that might tempt the youthful souvenir hunter.

Nearly 40,000 guests are expected between 9 o'clock Monday morning and 6 o'clock in the afternoon. Not that these guests are rugged in manners, but it has been the experience in the past that some appeared to have learned etiquette from Donald Ogden Stewart rather than Emily Post, and so the precautions.

If the children would stick to egg-rolling, everything would be very peaceful, but eventually they begin to eat the eggs and then ptomaine poisoning is not uncommon. Breaking a 10-minute egg over the head of one's playmate occasionally results in a rush order for the armistice, and when you get several thousand children together, it is not impossible that some arguments will arise and fistic combats ensue.

All in all, it has been a poor Easter party during which some guest was not carried off in an ambulance to a emergency hospital, hardly only a few blocks away.

The rules this year are much the same as they were last. Until 3 o'clock in the afternoon no adult is allowed in the white house grounds unless accompanied by a child. This gives an opportunity to the more practical youngsters to make a little pin money by charging adults 25 cents for walking in with them. Sometimes several trips can be made without detection.

The egg-rolling proper is a minor matter. No one seems to know exactly the point of this game. There are a number of knolls on the lawn in back of the executive mansion and the serious-minded egg-roller urges the colored produce up and down these slopes.

At 3 o'clock the gates will be thrown open to all, old and young, who care to attend a concert given by the United States marine band.

"HOUSEWORK" HANDS
USE LEMON ON THEM

Soap from dish-water, dirt and grime from cleaning, the stress from sweeping—all are hard on the hands. You must give such hands double care, and there's a very simple, easy way to do it.

Keep a California lemon in a saucer always on the sink and rub it on the hands after every job you do.

The lemon takes off the soap-dirt that eats into the skin. Also the grime and dirt. It softens the hands where they tend to harden.

And the California lemon is a natural, harmless bleach that keeps the skin white while it makes it soft and smooth.

Try it for ten days and see the fine results. Get a dozen California lemons now and keep a lemon in the saucer always on the sink. —Adv.

ATLANTA AUTOMOBILE ASSOCIATION

INTERNATIONAL LAW CONFERENCE ASKED

Washington, April 4.—(AP)—Declaring that with the "collapse and paralysis" of the League of Nations the time has arrived for the United States to make its contribution to world order, Representative Tinkham, republican, Massachusetts, announced today he will introduce a joint resolution requesting the president to propose a third conference at The Hague for codification of international law.

"With the failure of the league as a political mechanism for world peace through the employment of force and secret diplomacy," Mr. Tinkham said, "the way lies open for the United States to advance the American policy of international judicial settlement by persuasion and the application of justice without the exercise of force."

Inadequacy of present international regulations and development of new relations among nations, he added, make more binding and definite relations necessary for achievement of permanent world peace.

Douglas Fairbanks and "The World's Greatest Vacation Playground"

A Land Where You Write Your Own Ticket on the Weather; Wear a Light Overcoat Every Night; Where Every Day is a Bright Day and Rain Doesn't Spoil Your Fun—No Other Place in All the World is So Joyous as This.

Douglas Fairbanks' expression . . . "It isn't what I think of Southern California but what I feel about it that brings me the keen enjoyment of living there" . . . typifies the Southern California resident's idea of this delightful section of our United States.

There is no other place quite like it, no other climate so regularly cool and glorious in summer—no other section of your country where you can be so certain of a wonderful vacation.

There's camping in the rugged mountains, if that's what you want. There's the opalescent beauty of the great Pacific Ocean with its vast sandy beaches. Motoring, sightseeing, golf, tennis—every summer sport and recreation—is here at its best.

There's cosmopolitan life, too, if that attracts you. Smart cars threading through metropolitan streets—with famous people of stage, screen and society, to provide constant interest.

In fact, you choose your special kind of diversion according to your whim, in a city or a wilderness, for the two are curiously close in this strange land.

"Rough it" or wear evening clothes—do just as you wish. Here are hotels of international fame—among the most luxurious in the world. Here are boarding places, small quiet hotels, cottages, bungalows or mountain camps.

Here is history—old Spanish Missions built by the famous padres of more than a hundred years ago.

Here a desert like Sahara, on the edge of which are growing dates and figs and cotton—a type of country that you probably have never seen before.

And all connected by 5000 miles of perfect motor roads on which you can make 300 miles a day if you wish to see a great deal in a limited period.

No, nothing else is life it—no other travel-land, no other sport-land in the world. And summer is an ideal time according to the U. S. Weather Bureau whose records of mean temperatures in Los Angeles (the central city) during the past fifty years average 69 degrees!

Come here in summer and feel the charm as Douglas Fairbanks and scores of other famous people do.

Extra low round trip fares on all railroads are in effect from May 15th to October 31st. At very little additional cost you can come by way of Los Angeles and return via Santa Barbara, Del Monte, San Francisco, Oakland, Portland, Seattle, Tacoma and Spokane, seeing the entire great Pacific Coast in one grand trip.

We have issued probably the most complete book on vacations ever put in print—47 pages, illustrated! Before you plan your summer elsewhere get a copy free. Just mail coupon below.

D. A. V. Convention Leaders Launch $35,000 Campaign

Atlanta will be called upon this week through an intensive personal solicitation campaign commencing today to subscribe to the national convention fund of the Disabled American Veterans of the World War, for arrangements and the program contemplated for the sixth annual national convention of the organization to be held in this city June 21-26.

Under direction of Asa G. Candler, Sr., the finance committee will appeal to business firms and individuals for support of the $35,000 convention budget required to stage a fitting Atlanta welcome to the veterans and disabled veterans expected here in June from all parts of the United States.

In addition to personal calls on concerns and citizens, the finance committee has communicated with numerous business houses, stores and industrial plants, urging presentation of the convention project to executives and employees and suggesting that individual subscriptions of employees be obtained for the fund.

How to Contribute.
All subscribers will be given 60 days' time for cash report of their pledges. All remittances should be made payable to Asa G. Candler, Sr., chairman of the finance committee, subscriptions to the fund should be sent to the Disabled American Veterans' national convention committee headquarters, Ansley hotel, or to the Atlanta-Dowry National bank, 1100 and Walnut streets, for the fund.

Citizens desiring information concerning the convention plans and program or wishing to subscribe to the fund may communicate with committee headquarters in the Ansley hotel, telephone 1100 and Walnut 7717. Officers and members of patriotic, civic and veterans' organizations, and units of the Federation of Women's clubs, willing to enlist for service on divisions and teams of the finance committee, may call at the Ansley hotel headquarters today or tomorrow.

To add local interest in the appeal that is to get under way today, members of the citizens' committee will sponsor an open-air noonday program today in front of the Hurt building, commencing at noon. A quartet of pretty Atlanta girls will "Charleston" across the sidewalk spaces, Margaret Mooring, Miriam Hull, Hazel Jones and Sara Bodsworth tripping the latest steps.

Baseball Features.
A half-dozen members of the Detroit American league baseball club, players, in town today for an exhibition game with Atlanta, will participate in a novel stunt, Ty Cobb, manager, tossing baseballs from the roof of the Hurt building, while Lou Blue, classy first sacker of the Tigers, and Harry Heilmann, outfield, strive to spear the spheroids before they touch ground. Police Chief Jett's detail of officers will assist the remaining Tiger players in keeping the crowd away from the locale of the anticipated barrage of baseballs.

Colonel Charles H. Cox, of the 122d infantry regiment, national guard, and the regimental band, will assist the D. A. V. convention committee in the plan of maintaining interest in this week's financial appeal by parading through the downtown streets of Atlanta tonight. The regiment will leave the armory-auditorium shortly after 8:30 o'clock p. m. and will proceed over Peachtree, Whitehall, Marietta and other leading downtown streets.

The Adopted Wife

INSTALLMENT XXXVII.
THE MYSTERIOUS PRINCESS.

Then Hilary went for Donovan. "Don't be frightened," he adjured that stolid mass of horse sense. "It's only that she has a chill and would eat very little—and I persuaded her to drink some champagne. She never drinks any wine, you know, and it got her upset."

"She didn't eat no dinner, neither, Jenkins told me," said Donovan, getting into her striped wrapper behind the chinked door, through which Hilary was communicating with her.

"Good Lord! My poor Celia!" ejaculated he.

"Don't you worry, sir," soothed Donovan. "I'll just give her a dose of aromatics, and she'll sleep it off like a lamb."

"Haden't I better call up Dr. Harjes?"

"Lawks! No, sir. Why, you don't want no doctor man knowing the poor thing's got a bit lit, do you?"

"No. That's true," said Hilary.

He listened at Celia's door until Donovan had coaxed her to take the aromatic ammonia, undressed her, and tucked her in. Then he returned to the library. He had meant to write all night. But it was not to be thought of now. An immense tenderness and anxiety for Celia drove out all else.

He stalked to and fro, his old brier purring under his vehement puffs, considering things in the new aspect given them by her cry of: "I don't know whether I love him or not!"

"One thing is certain," he decided. "The fellow shan't get her unless she loves him absolutely. He shan't wheedle her into it... damp him."

For, though he had no great opinion of Padraic himself, he did not underestimate the young Irishman's powers of persuasion.

Padraic called up the next morning at ten o'clock. He knew that Celia awakened early, and he could not wait to see her again before speaking with her. But it was the butler's voice that answered, saying that

She turned over, hiding her face in the pillow.

Mrs. Fraser's boudoir telephone had been switched off, as she was indisposed and not yet awake.

"Is it serious?" asked Padraic, alarmed.

"I think not, sir," replied Jenkins in his staid, colorless voice. "Merely a chill caught at the theater last evening."

"Please send word to Mrs. Fraser when she awakens that I'm sorry and will call up later."

"Very good, sir," said Jenkins, who wished that he were free to disregard this request.

As an Englishman, he disapproved of Irishmen in the abstract, and as Hilary's servant he disapproved of Padraic in particular.

"I wish the master wasn't so much of a star gazer," thought he. "It's better to see what's going on under your nose, sometimes."

Padraic went straight from the telephone to a florist's. He selected himself each spray of flowers for Celia and superintended their arrangement in a bronze wicker basket. The delicious fragrance of the warm, moist air in the shop, that was at the same time woody and urban in its mingling of wet moss and the breath of forced roses, tickled his fancy, and he thought how Celia would be just the nymph to emerge from such surroundings.

The exquisite modernity of her type, with its blend of mystery and artifice, would show so well against this background of hothouse orchids and blossoms of unnatural size.

He chose orchids as the most fitting gift for her, pale and dark purple ones, white ones spotted with red as though handled by pricked fingers, small yellow ones like butterflies poised for flight. A heavy, fleshy one recommended by the florist as extremely rare he refused with repulsion. Its very odor was that of hot flesh masked by patchouli.

One stem of rose-cream blossoms, delicate as her own ears—he had seen them by now—crowned the whole.

"She is an air plant herself," he thought, gazing at his offering thus completed with approval.

"She has no roots in the dull, commonplace world in which she lives now. She will live on my love just as an air plant on air."

And he fell into a muse, there in the florist's shop, while a practical clerk, fidgeting with note pad and pencil beside him wondered how much longer this queer young man was going to keep him there before paying his bill, which was considerable.

Padraic went quite a journey into the realms of fantasy before he returned to the workaday world.

More and more he had become fascinated by the elusive quality of Celia. Her eyes under her strange headresses, her long fingers in their strange rings, her long body in its strange garments that were now filmy and rare as these orchids, now heavy with eastern embroideries and furs... she was like a Princess Lorraine... a mysterious princess from far Carthage... with her slanting, jade-green eyes. Her love—he was sure now that she loved him—would be as mysterious as her looks. They two would wander ways of delight together, teaching and taught... they would sail to the Isle of Bran.

"Sixty-seven, forty-eight," murmured the clerk's voice at his ear.

Padraic jumped.

"Forty-eight what?" asked he, catching only the last words.

The clerk politely tendered the itemized bill.

"Sixty-seven dollars and forty-eight cents," he clarified.

Padraic laughed, the clerk thought rather unnaturally, and paid the required sum with a cheerfulness that seemed to him also exaggerated.

"A young donkey pays sixty-seven dollars and forty-eight cents for a basket of cut flowers and then brays over it. Gosh!" thought he, and he turned to wait on another customer, with the proverbial "fools and their money" running scornfully in his head.

Celia did not awaken till three that afternoon. She had slept the clock around. She had no headache—Hilary's champagne was too good and light for that—but her eyelids felt stiff and her whole body, as well as her mind, had a bruised sensation.

She lay quite still, trying to recall what had happened the night before, but after the first few moments at the supper table all was blank. She remembered taking the champagne and how well it had made her feel, but... how had she got to bed? She had no memory of undressing, of saving good night to Hilary. All at once her heart gave a sickening plunge. A hot wave swept her. She felt that she had blushed from head to feet. Could it be that she had taken too much champagne? That she had been—drunk? If that was so... She turned over, hiding her face in the pillow, pressing her eyes so hard into it that dazzy wreaths and patterns began to swim upon the darkness. She lay there letting them form and melt... form and melt. A light, lilac semicircle edged with vivid gold occurred most frequently.

Then she got up quickly and went to her mirror.

Her eyelids were swollen just as though she had been crying... her face was deathly pale. She covered it with her hands and stood there trying to think... trying not to think. Something valiant in her shook itself awake and rose up.

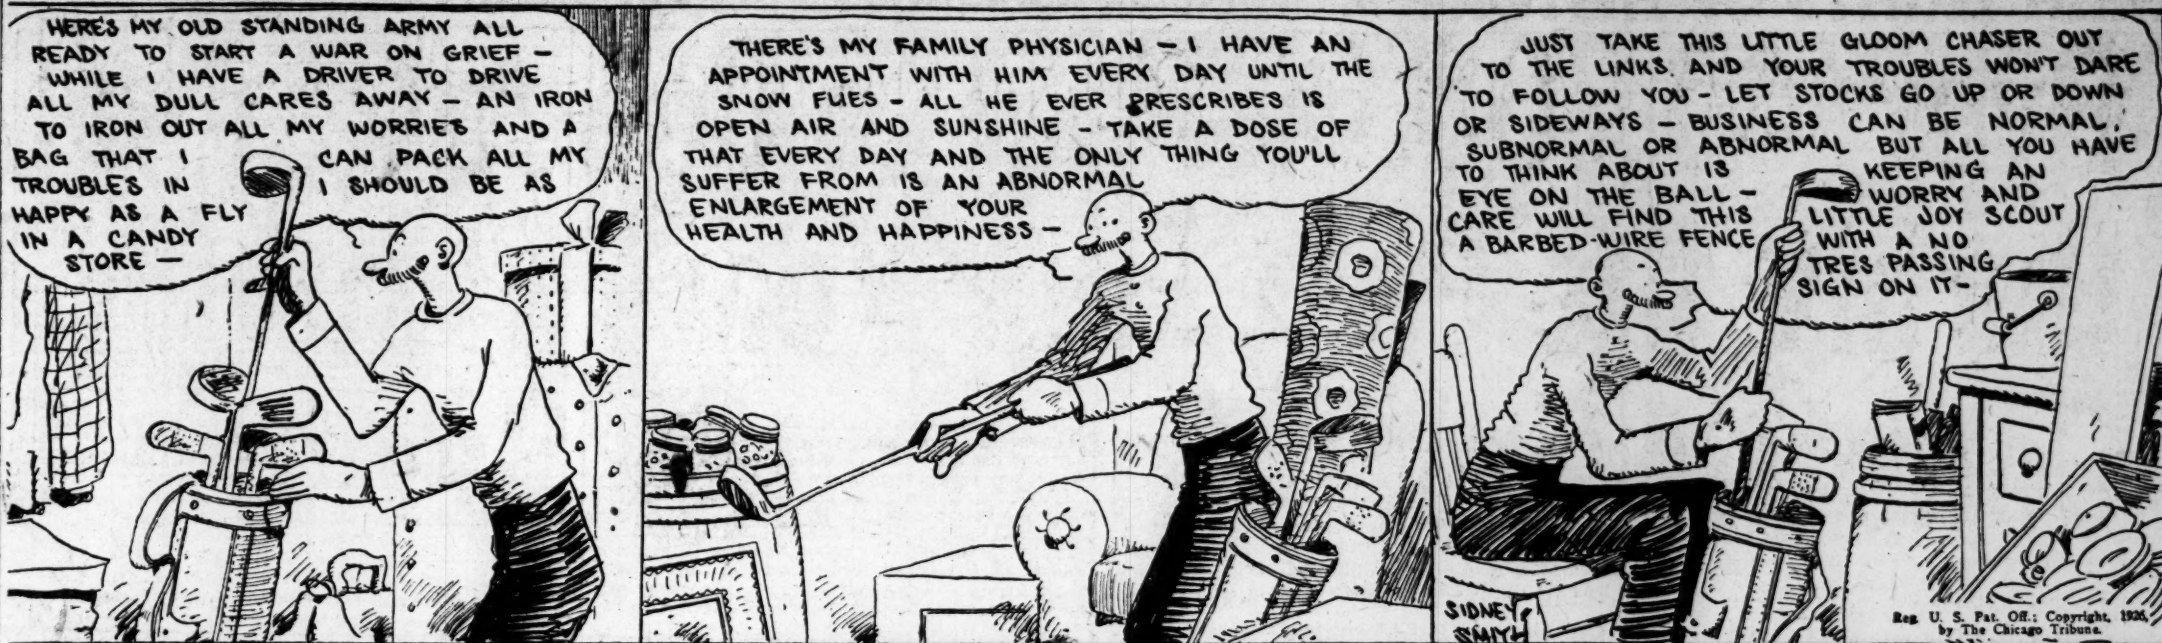

She did not ring for Donovan, but drew a cold bath for herself and plunged into it, thrusting her face also deep into the stinging water.

After that she felt much better, but the usual reaction that came after such an icy dip failed her. She grew more and more chilly and began searching among her gowns for something warm and simple that she could put on quickly. She had determined to see Hilary as soon as possible.

Atlanta Art Exhibition

Attracts Many Art Lovers

BY MRS. E. FARNSWORTH DREW

The exhibition of the Atlanta Art association closes Wednesday, April 8. A number of prizes were offered this year and for this reason the circulars sent in advance to the artists announced it as a competitive exhibition. The jury of awards consisted of Miss Charlotte Smith, for many years supervisor of drawing in the public schools, Melvin Underwood, well-known attorney, and Francis P. Smith, of the firm of Pringle & Smith, architects.

Fine Motives.

Prizes present many difficulties but we must not forget that the givers of these prizes are actuated by fine motives for the betterment of art in the city and we owe them gratitude in high degree. Particularly does this new prize instituted by Mr. and Mrs. Hunt Chipleigh in their affectionate memory of Mrs. Belle Newman Howard, beloved by all who knew her, appeal to us.

Much time and effort have been spent in learning to like the things we did not like, thereby, we hope, enhancing our ability to judge without prejudice. We have come to decide pictures into two classes, those we like with our heart and those we like with our head. It is Confucius who says "He who thinks with his heart is wiser than he who thinks with his head," but a good bit of head work is certainly necessary. The greatest pictures are painted by men who think both with their heads and their hearts. By men who have a feeling group of technique and another quality we term "feeling." Technique and feeling would hardly cover the whole field, but they answer all our present requirements.

Facing us as we leave the stairway are two half-length, life-size portraits of a "Virginia," by Mrs. Marjorie Russell Brown, and "Portrait of Fred Bull," by Mrs. Mary Newcomb Bull. We deprecate the word "rivalry" as between two artists whose real job is to keep alive the spirit of technique and another quality we term "feeling." In each the interest centers in the heart, the heart being indifferently covered. Unquestionably Mrs. Russell Brown's is the stronger.

In full light with nice gray shadows, the head of the boy looking out of the world but in a competitive exhibition, in spirit at least, it is unavoidable and instinctively we compare these. In each the interest centers in the heart, the heart being indifferently covered. Unquestionably Mrs. Russell Brown's is the stronger. Spurn judgment is not always to be relied on but we come back to "Carl Zimmerman," by Ralph Britt feeling that we made no mistake in finding it a fine piece of work. It is painted straight from the shoulder with full brush in good male fashion, uncompromising but gripping. On the same wall, above, hangs a little canvas of "Owen" in the moonlight, by Louise Britt, which attests to his poetic qualities.

To wrest an interesting picture out of uninteresting material is an accomplishment in which Miss Ott distinguishes herself not infrequently and she has not failed us in her "Early Spring," nor has Mrs. Frances Leo Turner in her "Daisy Farm in Spring," in her "Old Tallahassee Mansion," she has the full benefit of a beautiful subject in her "Scenes of My Kitchen Window," Mrs. Charles M. Jerome shows good craftsmanship but she fails in holding our interest. "The Green Gate," by Mrs. Louise Britt, is a bold bit of color and "Shadows," by Miss Lenore Lottspeich has charm. Mrs. E. Paxton Oliver's "Owen" is the most striking picture in the exhibition. It is a bit spotty but those COLUMBUS, Ga., April 4.—(AP)—Two were injured in a head-on collision of a Georgia freight train this morning near Parkside, Ala.

He stated that he had directed exhibits in many of the largest cities of the country and that the attendance in Atlanta for the one day was a record in his experience. WOMAN CONFESSES KILLING HUSBAND

Rison, Ark., April 4.—(AP)—Admitting, according to officials, that she killed her husband, Ben March, salesman, but claiming self defense, Mrs. Catherine March has been bound over to the grand jury on a charge of manslaughter. Bond was fixed at $500.

First March was quoted as saying that she shot her husband Friday morning when he attempted to force his way into the home of her mother, Mrs. J. C. Riley, with whom Mrs. March had been making her home since separation from her husband a year ago.

A bottle recently picked up on the shore at Youghal, 40 miles east of Queenstown, contained the following message: "See, August 18, 1925. Whoever finds this bottle inform Jukal Helmer, Carrollton, Carroll county, Ohio. Reward, $10. Am 63 today. Good luck."

Crowds of Tourists Swell Easter Parade at Capital

Washington, April 4.—(AP)—Record-breaking crowds of tourists joined in the Easter observance of the capital today, helping to fill all the churches, participating in the fashion parade on F street, crowding the hotels, appearing on the boulevards, and pursuing their sight-seeing.

Except for a chilly tang in the air and a gusty wind, the weather was all that could be desired, for there was not a cloud in the sky and fears of close to freezing temperatures were not realized.

The center of interest was the white house where the President and Mrs. Coolidge spent the entire day except for attending church in the morning with their son John, who is home from Amherst college for the holidays, and Mr. and Mrs. Frank V. Stearns, of Boston, who are home guests.

Outside the First Congregational church crowds which stretched for blocks waited to glimpse President and Mrs. Coolidge when they arrived and departed, while the pressure for admission was so great that two services in the morning were held and admission was by card.

Quiet and orderly, the pressure for admission was so great that two services in the morning were held and admission was by card.

The white house will continue its observance of the Easter holiday tomorrow when the grounds will be thrown open to the children of Washington for the annual egg rolling fête.

Jerusalem solemnly observes Easter day.

Jerusalem, April 4.—(AP)—Easter day celebrations were carried out in Jerusalem with fitting solemnity. Two early morning services were held by Protestant denominations in the Garden of the Tomb below Gordon's Calvary. At an impressive service of Anglicans in St. George's cathedral Bishop Innes officiated. A feature of this was the attendance of Father Cyril and numerous young Armenians, making a welcome extended by the Anglicans to the Gregorian eastern church.

Yesterday a noon service was held in the British military cemetery in honor of the soldiers who gave their lives for the conquest of Jerusalem. Field Marshal Lord Plumer, high commissioner for Palestine, delivered a stirring address, and called for fellowship of services, which was exemplified by all the graves around them.

A spectacular solemn high mass in the church of the Holy Sepulchre was attended by a large number of worshippers, among them many foreign visitors. The service was conducted by the Franciscan father custodian of the Holy Land. The image of the Savior which on Good Friday was placed in the coffin was removed yesterday at the Holy Fire ceremony.

This afternoon the Rev. Harry E. Fosdick, of New York, addressed a large gathering of tourists and members of the American colony; he delivered an Easter message on the immortality of the soul.

GREAT CROWDS ATTEND SERVICES IN SOUTH.
 (By the Associated Press.)
 A rain-saturated clear sky prevailed throughout the south today and Easter services attracted thousands of worshippers. Temperatures ranged around the 80 mark in most sections and the annual fashion parade was featured by an absence of heavy clothes.

The beaches of the south Atlantic were crowded, especially in the Florida cities, where thousands splashed in midsummer waters.

The south's most colorful service was held at Winston-Salem, N. C., where the 166th annual Moravian Easter service was observed in the old Salem graveyard. Members of the denomination from all parts of the country attended the quaint ceremony, which has come down the years since 1700.

Florida cities were favored with mid-summer temperatures for their special church services, and throughout the day daily dress throngs

Bishops Protest America Signing Lausanne Treaty

New York, April 4.—One hundred and ten bishops of the Episcopal church will protest to the United States senate against the ratification of the Lausanne treaty with Turkey, it is announced by David Hunter Miller, chairman of the American committee opposed to the Lausanne treaty.

The formal protest, which charges the present regime in Turkey with having massacred, deported and mistreated millions of inoffensive Christians, points out that ratification of the treaty would mean the resumption of friendly relations with a government which is unrepentant and anti-Christian.

The bishops base their charges on the report of General Lovett to the council of the League of Nations and other official reports and press dispatches from Turkey.

"We believe the Christian sentiment in America is opposed to ratification of the Lausanne treaty in its present form," the protest says.

"As Americans, we should be as so-far as possible for the protection of our moral rights."

"We are asked to resume friendly relations with an avowedly unrepentant and anti-Christian government which destroyed a million inoffensive Christian men, women and children; expelled from their ancestral homes over a million and a half, and is now holding in slavery in Turkish harems tens of thousands of Christian women and children."

Women Silent After Taking Poison Dose

No Cause Assigned in Suicide Attempts as Doctors Battle.

Writing in agonies from effects of having swallowed a quantity of poison, two pretty young women who were treated at Grady hospital Sunday night resisted all efforts of physicians to obtain reasons for attempts to end their lives.

One of the women, who gave her name as Mrs. Pauline Wallace, 16, of Raven avenue, is in a serious condition and doctors were battling late Sunday night to offset the effects of a deadly poison which she is said to have swallowed earlier in the afternoon.

Mrs. Ruby Farmer, who gave her age as 20, and her address as 35 Fulton street, was permitted to leave the hospital after doctors had given her treatment. According to hospital records she was suffering from effects of a quantity of iodine.

Both young women maintained strictest silence as to reasons for their acts and refused to answer questions of physicians.

Harry Biggers, small son of Mrs. C. E. Biggers, of 1141 Oak street, was treated at Grady Sunday afternoon after he had swallowed a small amount of rat poison. His condition is not regarded as serious.
